UC encourages a family-friendly work environment

The University of California recognizes the importance and benefits of breastfeeding for both mothers and their infants.

The University provides space for lactation purposes and break periods for employees who are breastfeeding.

University of California, Santa Barbara

Human Resources
3101 Student Affairs & Administrative Services Building
Santa Barbara, CA 93106-3160

Visit us Online:
www.hr.ucsb.edu/employee-services/family

UCSB is committed to providing support and information for nursing mothers expressing milk at work.
Lactation Rooms

The University will provide a private, secure, and sanitary area to express breast milk. Appropriate places include:
- employee’s own office, or
- another office not in use, or
- any available area with a locking door offering privacy.

Restroom stalls or any non-private space is not appropriate.

There are also several lactation rooms available on campus.

Campus Lactation Rooms
- Kerr Hall
- Davidson Library
- Student Resources Building
- Arts Library (Music building)
- Ellison Hall
- Noble Hall

All lactation rooms are equipped with a hospital-grade breast pump (personal attachments/accessories are not included).

Breast Pumps and Supplies

- Contact your medical plan for:
  - breast pumps
  - supplies
  - breastfeeding support
  - counseling
- Breast pumps may be borrowed from the Lactation Accommodation Program, if available. For more information, please register online.

Interested in the Program?

Please register!
Submit the Registration Questionnaire online:
hr.ucsb.edu/employee-services/family
It takes less than 5 minutes to complete!

Questions?
Visit:
hr.ucsb.edu/employee-services/family

Contact
Lactation Accommodation Program Coordinator
(805) 893-4770