From the Retirees President

Dear UCSB Retirees,

We hope you had an enjoyable summer and did some traveling. Some of our Retirees took advantage of our tour to Lotusland in August. I agree with what’s been written; it is one of the 10 most beautiful gardens in the world. I was so impressed by its beauty that I’m buying a membership which allows me to visit whenever they are open. I love that it is in our own backyard.

We meet every third Wednesday at the Cody’s Café, Turnpike and Hollister at 9A for an interesting presentation and a no-host breakfast (meeting schedule on page 9). Our speaker for Sept. 21st was UCSB retiree, Ginny Johns, who shared about her sailing trip with her husband around the world. What an adventure.

You will remember the packed house at Cody’s every Oct. when UCSB Health Care Facilitator, Laura Morgan comes to speak about our benefits for 2017. Laura will be our speaker on Oct. 19th (see page 2 for Open Enrollment presentation schedule). Professor Chandra Krinz from UCSB will come speak on Nov. 16th about computer technology.

Our annual Holiday Luncheon is a very popular event and again we have scheduled it at the Elks Lodge on Wednesday, December 7th. Please join us for a wonderful time with great food and a fundraiser raffle to support our scholarships. Our entertainment is a

From the Emeriti President

Colleagues,

Another school year has begun, and our fall Kickoff social event will be held October 24th at 3:30P in Mosher Alumni House. Our speaker Debra Lieberman, Ph.D., Director of UCSB Center for Digital Games Research will present a slideshow: “Using Digital Games to Improve Our Health”. (See page 5 for details)

On page 8 of this newsletter you will find the winners of the prize competition for the UCSB Undergraduate Research Colloquium, and the names of this year’s judges. The competition is an opportunity for all emeriti to participate and encourage our UG students to continue their active research and educational development, by contributing to the fund and/or being a judge. Many thanks to those who supported this year’s competition.

Later in October, your Emeriti officers will attend the Council of University of California Emeriti Associations (CUCEA http://cucea.ucsd.edu/) twice-annual conference at UC Santa Cruz. This is an opportunity for exchange of ideas among all emeriti associations on every campus, and to insure that UC retired faculty and staff voices are heard by UCOP officials attending the conference. Our own Bill Ashby is the Secretary to CUCEA and the UCSB representative.

Your Emeriti and Retiree Associations noticed there was no general administration reception when employees retired after working at UCSB – sometimes up to 20, 30;

Open Enrollment Highlights

Open Enrollment is an opportunity to change plans and add family members to your UC sponsored insurance. Open Enrollment will be from Oct 27 to Nov 22. Any changes you make during this period will be effective starting January 1, 2017.

During Open Enrollment you can make change online or by calling the Retiree Administration Service Center (RASC) at 1-800-888-8267 for assistance.

More information will be mailed to your home and there will be resources and enrollment instructions on the UCnet website http://www.ucnet.universityofcalifornia.edu in late October.

Very few changes in the Health Net HMO medical plans for 2017

The plan designs and copays will remain much the same for Health Net Blue & Gold HMO and Health Net Seniority Plus.

2017 Vendor Changes for UC’s Blue Shield PPO Medical Plans

UC has selected new vendors for services provided to members of the Blue Shield medical plans. This means that the network of physicians and therapists who are part of the PPO plans may be different in 2017. We expect most to stay the same, but some may be different.

We also expect very few changes in the covered medical and prescription drug benefits. Medications covered under your current plan will continue to be covered by Optum Rx, but there may be some cost difference.

More details about this transition will be available in the Open Enrollment materials mailed to your home, and on UCnet website in late October.

Food Labels We Look For & What They Really Mean

As you walk through the grocery store, it's not uncommon to pick up a product - say a carton of eggs, for example - and see that the package is plastered with an abundance of labels bearing various terms and certifications, all calling for your attention: Organic! Cage-Free! Non-GMO! All Natural!

Are consumers being purposely misled, or are we just uninformed? What do these certifications actually mean? Do they make guarantees to the consumer or are they just marketing ploys? It depends.

There are dozens of both independent and government-regulated certification stamps decorating food products in our grocery stores. The fact is anyone can set up a group with its own logo and offer to put it on foods. And some food labeling words have no concrete definition or legal meaning (for instance "all-natural"). Using Digital Games to Improve Our Health

Playing digital games is a popular pastime for people of all ages. As technologies, genres, and interfaces continue to advance, games are becoming more accessible to all while offering more varied and engaging ways to play. This talk provides an overview of groundbreaking games designed to improve health and some research outcomes demonstrating their effectiveness.

Debra Lieberman is a media researcher at UC Santa Barbara, where she directs the university’s Center for Digital Games Research. From 2007 to 2013 at UC Santa Barbara she directed Health Games Research, a national program funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to advance the research, design, and effectiveness of health games. Debra’s research focuses on processes of motivation, learning, and behavior change with digital media and games.

Local Tour: The Fernald Mansion
Wednesday, December 14

Built in 1861, Judge Charles Fernald, and later on his daughter, Florence Fernald, lived in the house until 1958. Now, the SB Historical Society maintains the house as it appeared when it was occupied by the Fernald family. Inside, the family’s original furniture and wall coverings are on display; on the outside, the house is still painted an understated ivory in accordance with the Judge’s wishes.

Enjoy hot cider, cookies and holiday décor while reflecting on the history of the house, and life in times gone by.

FORTHCOMING SURVEY OF UC RETIREES

Retired UC staff and non-Senate academics should watch for an e-mail this fall inviting them to participate in an on-line survey about their post-retirement activities. This is the first time such a survey has been undertaken, and it is intended to complement the recent survey of UC’s emeriti faculty that was reported in the August issue of New Dimensions.

The primary purpose of the short survey is to provide information that can be used by the individual campus and lab retiree associations and by campus retiree centers to better serve and advance the interests of UC’s retired staff.

The survey was developed by a team of retirees from UC campuses and staff from UC retiree centers. It is sponsored by the Council of UC Retiree Associations (CUCRA), which consists of representatives from every UC staff retiree organization.

The UCSB Retirees Association and the UCBS Emeriti/Retirees Center urge all retired staff and non-Senate academics to participate in the survey so its findings can be used in advocating on their behalf.

Sensible Changes You Can Make To Help Lower Your Blood Pressure

A number of steps can be taken to lower blood pressure. These include lifestyle measures as well as drugs that doctors can prescribe.

Lifestyle measures to help lower blood pressure:

1. Eat healthy - the DASH diet The DASH diet stands for "Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension." It involves eating a diet that is rich in fruits and vegetables and in dairy products that are low in fat. The diet is also low in fat, and saturated fat in particular. The overall energy intake of the DASH diet is around 2,000 calories a day. See more at: https://www.nhlbi.nih.gov/health/health-topics/topics/dash

2. Cut down on sodium Cutting sodium intake is proven to lower blood pressure. Evidence from clinical trials is "strong and consistent," according to the American College of Cardiology and the American Heart Association.

3. Exercise, lose weight In the United States, the recommendation for exercise against blood pressure is: 40 minutes of exercise, 3-4 times a week.

4. Stop smoking, drink moderately Quitting smoking is an important step against a wide array of health risks. Similarly, keeping alcohol intake to sensible levels helps against high blood pressure.

5. Sleep well A number of scientific studies have found that poor sleep is linked to higher blood pressure. Sleeping well may be one way to help reduce blood pressure.

Why is high blood pressure bad? High blood pressure is when the blood flow pushes against the walls of the arteries with greater force. It is also known as hypertension. Raised blood pressure is a danger because it is linked to a higher risk of blood vessel disease over time, and can lead to events like heart attack or stroke.

Fast Facts About Sleep https://sleepfoundation.org/

- 45 percent of Americans surveyed said poor sleep had affected their performance in the last week
- Americans sleep an average of 7 hours and 36 minutes a night
- The average American goes to bed at 10:55 p.m. and wakes up at 6:38 a.m. on workdays
